Washington and Old Domin ion Railroad Company Officials Act as Hosts.

SERVES 80,000 PERSONS

Newspaper Men Are Delighted with Trip and the Equipment of Line.

Officials of the Washington and Old Officials of the washington and Obminion Railroad Company yesterday entertained a party of friends and newspaper men with a tour of the line between Washington and Bluemont, Va., which recently has been "electrified." At Bluemont the party left their special car and drove through historic Spickers, Gan and drove through historic Snicker's Gar to the top of the ridge for a view of Loudoun and Clarke Counties to the top of the ridge for a view of Loudous and Clarke Counties.

The inspection trip was both delightful and informing. Wet as the air was—and it was so wet at times that what the Weather Bureau calls "precipitation" occurred—the enug coach in which the inspecting party and their hosts traveled, and the yet amagger buffet car leaded with valuables ahead, were as cheerful as if all the suns in the firmament were shining therein.

The precipitation, in fact, was slight, despite the constant cloudiness. Only for a few minutes at Blusmoot, while the travelers were posing for the photographer, as debonairly as possible under a driving drizale that found its way into the inside of the collar with flendish ingenuity, were the brave impectors of electrification subjected to real rain. The railroad's officials, who were hosts guides, and mentors on the journey, were C. Wright, predident, W. B. Emmert, general manager; J. V. Davis, general passenger and freight agent, Willon J. Lambert, general attorney, and J. A. Lehew, trainmaster.

Their guests were John Pools, President of the Federal National Bank; L. P.

Capt. Wells was chaplain of the First. Tennessee Regiment. U. S. V., during the insurrection in the Philippines. It was while he was with the regiment that its members disembarked to defeat an army of Moros who were attacking an Atherican garrison. It is claimed that Capt. Wells is well acquainted with the immediate circumstances out of which arose the war between Turkey and the Baltan allies. This information, it is said, he gained during an evangelical tour of Turkey.

outrageous."

An investigation by a special committee of five members of the House of the so-called tariff lobby, which President Wilson charges is doing its best to defeat the Underwood bill, was proposed in a resolution introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Tavenner of Ulivoles.

The resolution recites the President's allegations and the great amount of money that is being spent on newspaper advertising, and urges an inquiry into all these matters. The expenses of the investigation would be paid out of the contingent fund of the House.
